

(Read with sound track from Space Odyssey running)

This weekend do not move out of your recliner. Do not touch that remote. Have Channel 3 on and be ready.

Why? Because right before your eyes, hundreds of home furnishings—handmade furniture, paintings and pottery—will be dropped right into your living room. Unique items that you would never find anywhere else. You will be able to view local artistry at its very best.

(Pause, now read excitedly)

It's the WVPT Annual Art Auction starting Saturday at 4:00 p.m. and going until midnight on local cable Channel 3, Harrisonburg. Handmade items lovingly handcrafted by local arts in the Shenandoah Valley. All proceeds will go to funding local public television. Programs that you and your family enjoy such as the History of the Valley and Sid the Science Kid.

So please help keep these and other programs running on your local station. Tune in and support this wonderful cause.

Again it will be on this Saturday, November 19 beginning at 4:00 p.m. and going until midnight. Don't forget to call in to the show with your support. Not to mention find those unique items for your home that are lovingly handcrafted.

For more information, call Jacqueline D. Horton at (540) 437-2443 or log in to www.wvpt.net.